

Christina Corodimas grew up in West Chazy, New York. She was very involved in community service from a young age. For two years she served as a youth representative to The Clinton County Youth Bureau which works to promote positive youth development, strong families, and supportive communities. The Youth Bureau was one of the first AmeriCorps host sites when Christina served as a board member. During her junior year of college, she spent a semester living in Aix-en-Provence, France with a host family and studied at the Institute for American Universities. Christina graduated from Hobart and William Smith Colleges with a Bachelor of Arts degree in political science and elementary education and with her teaching credential. Feeling both pulled to national service and the Pacific Northwest, Christina then served as an AmeriCorps VISTA with the Washington Reading Corps in Vancouver, Washington.

Christina spent four years as a national recruiter for AmeriCorps programs covering a 10 state region out of her office in Oakland, California. Christina went on to attend the Clinton School of Public Service in Little Rock, Arkansas. There she obtained a Master of Public Service degree and had an opportunity to spend a semester as a computer educator for elementary and middle school students, and sustainability liaison for several school-based computer labs in Arusha, Tanzania.

Christina spent four years with Not In Our Town, a nonprofit media company that produces films for PBS. At Not In Our Town, Christina served as operations manager, financial liaison and community outreach coordinator for the movement as they worked to stop hate, racism and bullying, and build safe, inclusive communities for all.

Most recently Christina raised funds and planned special events for Sequoia Living in support of programs and services helping Northern California seniors live healthy, fulfilling lives.

Christina met and married her husband in San Francisco and they recently relocated to Vermont to be closer to family and enjoy a quieter lifestyle. Christina enjoys spending time in nature, exploring new places, crafting and spending time with the kids in our Teen and Tween Center.
